Night Watcher — November Sky Forms (2025)

Light tells one story.
Darkness tells another.
Some shapes only appear when the daylight slips away and the world paints with deeper strokes.

The first impression: a presence you don’t expect at night.

Contours sharpen when you step closer.

What you see depends on how you enter the scene.

Not every visitor waits for daylight.